

CABINET CHANGES.

Attorney Gen'l Moody Plans Retirement.

JOHN HAY WILL REMAIN

Myer Likely to Be the Member from Massachusetts — Shaw Undecided

— Morton Will Remain.

Boston, Nov. 11.—The Transcript prints from its New York correspondent the following:

New York, Nov. 9.—Some important changes will be made on or before March 4th. This is customary whenever a President is re-elected, and it would be especially in order now when so large a part of the Administration's working corps was inherited from a previous President. Twelve years is a long time for one set of officers in the executive departments, and now that eight of these have passed there will probably be something of a shake-up.

John Hay will not leave the state department. This may be stated on the highest authority. Nothing but a serious failure of his health would make the President willing to consider Mr. Hay's retirement, and although he is not rugged, there is, fortunately, every reason to believe that he will be able to continue in his great office. Seldom has the Secretary of State been so distinct an issue as in this campaign. The Hay diplomacy has stood for some great ideas of international policy. In the past we have changed secretaries of state so often that there has been little opportunity for the development of any consistent policy, especially by comparison with the European monarchies, where the head of the foreign office, if it does not get what it wants one year, can try again ten years hence, or twenty, with the same strategist in command. Our average term for secretaries of state has been about three years. Mr. Hay, if he serves through this Administration, will have had ten years of this service.

Secretary Taft in the War Department will remain in the cabinet, at least as long as Fuller remains in the Supreme Court. The President is very desirous of having Taft as attorney general, to succeed Mr. Moody, but the Secretary of War's obligation to the Philippine people and Philippine interests is such, that he hopes to remain where he is. This is a detail, however, to be worked out in the future. Moody will leave the cabinet to the President's very great regret—about March 4. It is rather probable that George von L. Meyer will be the Massachusetts man in the cabinet, to follow Moody, although not in the attorney general's office. This is not settled, by any means, since the President would like a "big Boston lawyer," of whom he has one or two in mind, in case the man could be induced to accept the place for attorney general, provided it is decided to allow Taft to remain where he is. And, of course, there would not be two cabinet places assigned to Massachusetts.

Mr. Meyer will doubtless retire from the Italian mission early in the new Administration, and ordinarily speaking, stands an excellent chance of being invited into the cabinet.

Paul Morton will remain in the cabinet, but possibly will be transferred to another post. Secretary Shaw has seemingly not made up his mind what to do. For years he has said that he desired to go out with this term of office, but as he is an active aspirant for the presidential nomination in 1908, it seems to his friends that he should keep before the public, and they are urging him to accept the President's invitation to remain for another term. There will be some changes in the assistant secretaries and perhaps in the bureau officers of this department.

Postmaster General Wynne will be transferred to some other post, after the 4th of March. Frank H. Hitchcock, of Somerville, Mass., will probably be made first assistant postmaster. Hitchcock's rise has been rapid. A graduate of Harvard, class of 1891, he was admitted to the agricultural department as a clerk, through the civil service examination. He made good progress, and in the McKinley administration was appointed chief of the division of foreign markets. In his investigations he made several trips to Europe. When Mr. Cortelyou organized the new Department of Commerce he took Hitchcock into it as chief clerk, and with Cortelyou he resigned to go to New York for the campaign. It is assumed that they will go together into the Post Office Department.

Ethan Allen Hitchcock, the Secretary of the Interior, will retire. The Commissioner of Pensions under him, Eugene F. Ware, will also retire. He has not found the office congenial, although he has conducted it with great ability, and has come nearer to pleasing both the intelligent taxpayers and the veterans than any other occupant of the office in recent years. His order seventy-eight regarding the age limits, will stand. The public printer, Mr. Frank W. Palmer, will retire, and in so doing fill a long-felt want. Secretary Wilson of the Department of Agriculture will probably stay. He is a good officer, has a great hold on the farmers, is a spirited campaigner, and there is nobody else fitted for the position who is very eager for it. It is a peculiar office. He is the only member of the present cabinet who came in at the beginning of the McKinley administration, March 4, 1897, and should he serve through the term to which Mr. Roosevelt is now elected, he would have twelve years in that post. Albert Gallatin now holds the long-distance record among the cabinet officers. Mr. Wilson may break it.

In the diplomatic and consular service there will be some changes. Minister Conger's retirement from the Chinese mission will be among the first. It is probable that the President will accept a good many of the resignations that come in. He has naturally built up some personal obligations through his nomination and election this year, and also has his own ideas of the men whom he would like to see in important diplomatic places. Among the McKinley appointees there are several whom he wants to promote, as he has done in the past when occasion offers. Our consular service in China, which has already been overhauled somewhat, will be further improved.

OLD AGE BROUGHT NO INFIRMITIES

To "The Autocrat of the Breakfast Table."

Oliver Wendell Holmes, after eighty years of life had rolled over his head, declared that he was "eighty years young." So may every man and woman in Barre, said Druggist Wells of Rickett & Wells, "if they will take proper care of themselves, keep built up and their bodily tissues from wasting." "I wish I could persuade every person in this vicinity who 'feels old,' whether they are so in years or not, to take our splendid cod liver oil preparation, Vinol. It is by far the greatest tissue builder and invigorator in the world for old people. Vinol is not a patent medicine, but simply contains the body-building, strength-creating properties of cod liver oil actually taken from fresh cods' livers, and we guarantee that it will repair worn tissues, check the natural decline and replace weakness with strength. "There are hundreds of old people in this vicinity who need just such a strength-maker and tissue-builder as Vinol. Their blood is thin and sluggish, but we guarantee that Vinol will enrich and quicken the blood and build up the system. It contains no whiskey or strong stimulants, which have a bad after effect and weaken and break down, and we therefore wish every person who 'feels old' in this vicinity would try Vinol on our guarantee to return their money if they are not satisfied." Rickett & Wells, Druggists.

Ware Ready to Quit? Rumor That Davenport Will Be Pension Commissioner.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 10.—The report has again been revived that Eugene F. Ware, commissioner of pensions, will soon retire from the public service.

It is said, further, that Mr. Ware's successor has already been selected. This is understood to be James L. Davenport, first deputy commissioner of pensions, who is known to be Ware's choice if he is permitted to have any say in the matter.

Mr. Ware is said to have indicated to the President early in October that he was ready to quit immediately upon the qualification of his successor, but he was induced to remain temporarily, and his retirement is now expected to be announced the latter part of the month or early in December.

PROHIBITIONISTS PLEASED

They Believe Their Presidential Candidate Polled at Least 300,000 Votes.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—"Prohibitionists are well satisfied with the showing made in the election," said Oliver W. Steward, national chairman of the party. "Returns received at national headquarters in this city indicate that Dr. Swallow, our presidential candidate, polled at least three hundred thousand votes and the probabilities are that the final count will carry the number considerably beyond these figures. Our reports show that four of our candidates have been elected to the State Legislature in Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Illinois are showing up best, although there will be a big increase in the Prohibition party vote in Kansas, Iowa, Pennsylvania and other states."

PLEA FOR A TEN-HOUR LAW

W. S. Greene Would Amend the Constitution.

BEEN DESIRED FOR YEARS

Opportunity Now for Republican Majority—Belief That Act Would Favorably Affect All States.

Fall River, Nov. 10.—Congressman W. S. Greene is out today with a plea for a national ten-hour law, in which he says: "As the returns from all over the country are received, the great national victory of Tuesday last assumes proportions never before dreamed of. For years there have been hopes throughout the New England States that a constitutional amendment giving authority to the Congress of the United States to provide for the regulation of the hours of labor in the manufacturing establishments throughout the country could be secured. The first resolution looking to that end was presented by Hon. R. T. Davis, a former member of Congress from this district, and it was introduced by my predecessor, the late Hon. John Simpkins. After his decease, before I became a member of the House of Representatives, it was again presented in Congress by Hon. William C. Lovering, my colleague from Taunton, and the measure is now pending.

"The Republican majority has not been large enough heretofore to secure consideration of the subject, as a two-thirds vote of both branches of Congress is necessary to provide for the amendment, and afterwards the approval of two-thirds of the Legislatures of all of the States. The overwhelming vote for the Republican party, giving an unprecedented majority in the House of Representatives, and in the various Legislatures throughout the country, may afford an opportunity to obtain this legislation, so essential to the prosperity of both the operative and the manufacturer. United effort of both capital and labor should be exerted to put into effect this most necessary legislation. This question is of national importance, and would affect favorably all the states. It should receive consideration irrespective of party affiliations, but, like all great national questions, must have party responsibility behind it, and I believe the opportunity for the Fifty-Ninth Congress to act should not be lost."

HARD TO CAPTURE.

Este Mountain Is Proving Costly Problem to Japs.

Chie Foo, Nov. 10, Noon.—Este mountain, according to Chinese, 120 of whom arrived here today from Port Arthur, is proving a costly obstacle to the Japanese. On the mornings of November 5 and 6, fierce assaults on the position were made by the Japanese who were repulsed. During the second assault a shell soaring over the other hills from Palichang dropped on Este mountain and demolished a land mine controlling station, and exploded other mines.

The Russians were holding the trenches on the boundary of the mined section. Six or seven hundred were killed. The Japanese not having reached the place, were unhurt.

Este mountain owes the best part of its strength to the peculiar topography of the surrounding country which prevents a direct artillery fire and does not enable the Japanese to advance trenches with the success evident elsewhere.

The Japanese advanced on it in both instances from behind distant hills, with the fullest force the ground would allow, but in the long distance which they were compelled to traverse, in the face of machine guns their ranks were melted. Both times the Japanese broke the wire entanglements in places. One soldier with a leg torn off was seen trying to bite the wires.
